Jealousies of Good Folks

The good people of this world are most of them not yet wholly good.

A great many church people, and even preachers, are still subject to the temptations of the flesh and the devil.

One of these temptations is to be jealous when somebody else does something for the Lord.

We read in the Scripture that two of the disciples came to Jesus in a high state of excitement and said "Lord, we found one casting out devils, and we forbade him because he followed not us." But Christ rebuked them and said they should be glad to have devils cast out no matter who did it.

So it is today that when one church, or institution, seems to be succeeding in the Lord's work, others who suppose themselves to be servants of the same master find fault and put stumbling blocks in the way.

A true Christian is glad to have God's work done no matter who does it.

Georgia's Disgrace

The people of Georgia are feeling more and more that the whole state is disgraced by violent deeds like the lynching of Frank. No doubt a majority of the people disapprove of such things, but this large majority is getting ready to do something about it and stop their hot-headed and fire-eating neighbors. The time is coming when Tennyson's hope will be realized:

"There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe

And the kindly earth shall slumber lapt in universal law."

HOW THE WORLD EMPTIES AND FILLS

John M. Siddall, writing in the October American Magazine under the title "How the World Empties and Fills," says:

"Twenty-one years ago Coxey's Army marched to Washington. The newspapers were full of it. Mention Coxey to anybody over thirty-five years old and see the understanding in his face. Know Coxey and his blooming army? Well, I should say so! Now try Coxey on men and women in the twenties. Just try it. It will open your eyes. Coxey? Who the blazes is Coxey? Looks of confusion and ignorance.

"Coxey, you see, quit advertising. That is, the Coxey publicity ceased. And the world has filled up with people who never heard of him. Millions and millions of them.

"That is the way with some advertisers. They speak up a few times and then go back to their factories. There, by George, we've Time begins to work. And the undertaker. And the parson armed with a marriage license. And the baby carriage. And rheumatism. And, first you know, the world is peopled with new bosses, new buyers and new housekeepers who never heard of you. Incredible! What?—never heard of me? No, never heard of you! Sorry to disappoint you.

"Man is provided with a great ego.

If he didn't have it he couldn't stand it to live. Without an ego he would probably take one look at the moon and go jump in the lake. Now the best thing that an ego does is to give you a fine feeling of permanence. Of course you aren't permanent, and your better sense tells you so. But Mr. Ego keeps trying to make you think you are. What he aims to do is to make you feel comfortable. Nice thing to have around—an ego. You need him in your business. But don't believe everything he tells you. He is the most agreeable and ever-present liar on your premises."

WHAT OUR SMALL ARMY COSTS

Our army is but fourteen per cent the size of the French army, yet costs us more than twice as much. It is but thirteen per cent as large as the German army and costs over half as much. It is but seven per cent as large as the army of Russia and costs thirty-seven per cent as much. Our army costs us $1,300 per capita, while no European country pays as much as $400. Naval figures reach almost the same proportions.

We look with considerable wonder and admiration upon the great guns which protect New York harbor.

IN OUR OWN STATE

Berea Man Injured When Auto and Cycle Collide

C. N. Canfield, superintendent of the Berea College laundry, of Berea, was badly bruised and his motorcycle was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon about four o'clock on the Richmond pike, about half a mile this side of the reservoir, when he collided with an automobile driven by Lucas Combs, a son of Leslie Combs. Two front wheels of the automobile were torn off, the front axle bent backward, the lights and left fender mashed and the windshield broken.

Canfield was brought to Lexington in the car of Leslie Combs, which was immediately behind that of his son, and his injuries were found to consist mainly of bruises on his legs and thigh. He was taken to his home last night by his father, who came for him.

Canfield was riding away from Lexington on the dirt pike and had pulled on the left side of the road to pass an automobile going in the same direction, when he struck the Combs' car which was coming toward Lexington. The Combs' car had also been turned out of the road to pass another car and on account of the dust neither was able to see the other until the machines almost had collided, when the auto was headed into the bank to break the force of the collision. Both parties seem to think the accident was unavoidable. The auto was damaged by striking the bank.

The gasoline tank on the motorcycle exploded, setting fire to the machine which was practically ruined before the fire was extinguished.

It was brought to the Phoenix Garage and the automobile was towed to the Service Tire Company. — Lexington Herald.

Big Lumber Company Changes Hands

The Rice Lumber Company, of Pineville, has closed a deal with the T. J. Asher & Sons in which all the lumber and milling plant of the latter firm has been passed over to the comparatively new firm.

The T. J. Asher & Sons firm has been in business for many years at Wasiota and have the reputation of having been one of the largest lumber firms in the South. Their export work has been enormous in the years gone by.

The recent transfer is said to consist of more than a million and a half feet of lumber.

The outlook for the new firm under the management of Mr. Rice is good and business is general picking up.

Bell Circuit Court Convenes

Monday morning last was the opening of a ten weeks term, of which five will be held in Pineville and the remainder in Middlesboro.

His honor, Judge W. T. Davis, presides. The Commonwealth's business is being looked after by Commonwealth's Attorney J. G. Forrester, of Harlan, and County Attorney, C. I. Dawson.

The Judge enumerated the many violations of the law that would likely be brought before them when he charged the grand jury, and emphasized that they should investigate these matters closely, and if the evidence justified, indictments should be returned.

Estill County's First Moonlight School

On Monday night, the 11th, at the East Irvine Graded School building a Moonlight School was opened with an attendance of sixteen. Prof. O. F. Kerr has the honor of organizing the school and to be assisted by Prof. Alecorn and Editor Walker. It is hoped that all the illiterate adults in the neighborhood can be influenced to attend. All necessary books and supplies are furnished free by the State Illiteracy Commission.

Lexington & Eastern Railroad No More

The L. & E. became a part of the great L. & N. system last week. The old road is now divided into two divisions of the larger railroad's system. From Lexington to Maloneys is one division and is in charge of Superintendent Anderson, with headquarters at Paris. W. A. McDowell, who was general manager of the old road, is now general agent for the executive department of the Louisville and Nashville system, a newly established office. There are no changes contemplated in the schedule of trains over the consolidated lines.

Chinese and Negro Taken From Jail

Clarksville, Tenn., Oct. 12.—A negro and a Chinese, under arrest in connection with the murder of A. H. Cage, cashier of the Planters' National bank, were taken from jail here by a posse of citizens. The Chinese, after being beaten, was released. The negro has not been found.

U. S. EMBARGO ON MEXICAN ARMS

No More Shipments Into Villa Territory.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 12.—There has been put into effect an embargo on the exportation of arms to any territory controlled by Villa or his associates.

At Nogales and Douglas, Ariz., the customs collectors were not as secretive as the local collector and openly admitted that an embargo was on. The searching of all the transportation passing to Mexico was undertaken and several attempts to get arms over the line were frustrated at Nogales.

While no direct orders were issued by El Paso to the effect that an embargo was on, it was admitted in local official circles that no arms had been exported to Juarez this week and that if an application should be made to send arms over, it would be held up.

Orders from the state department are said to have been sent to American Consul Marion Letcher at Chihuahua City to order all Americans in his district to leave Mexico at once. In the past his instructions have been to "advise Americans to leave." Mr. Letcher himself is to come out at once. He is the last remaining American consul in Villa territory except Consul T. D. Edwards at Juarez.

Another appeal from the American Mormons still at the colonies in the vicinity of Caasas Grandes for some means of transportation to get them out, was received here.

SUIT TO PREVENT WAR INVESTMENT

Filed Against Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—With the allegation that the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York is about to invest $10,000,000 of its trust funds in the Anglo-French loan of $500,000,000, Olga H. S. Walsh, Chicago, holder of a $2,000 insurance policy in the Mutual filed suit for an injunction in the federal court here.

The complaint to the court which was filed by Mrs. Walsh in person sets forth that among the thousands of policy holders in the Mutual Life Insurance company are many persons of various nationalities, and that the investment of the trust funds of these policy holders in the Anglo-French loan would tend to produce antagonisms among the policy holders, which might lead to disrupting the company and thereby deprecate the value of her interest in the company.

The bill asks that the officers of the company be restrained from directly or indirectly investing its trust funds in the loan or from investing its trust funds or suffering any of its assets to be used for the purpose of aiding the manufacture of munitions of war, aeroplanes, submarines or any naval outfit or appliances to be used by the English or French nations for belligerent purposes.

The bill alleges that 22 per cent of the policy holders of the company are Germans and German-Americans.

WILSON TALKS TO D. A. R.'S

President Pays Gallant Compliment to His Fiancee.

WEDDING DATE NOT GIVEN

Supreme Court Pays Formal Respects to Chief Executive and Congratulates Him Upon His Engagement—Secret Service Men Kept on the Jump.

Washington, Oct. 12.—What was regarded as a gallant compliment to his fiancee, uttered by President Wilson in his speech on "National Unity" at the Continental hall was applauded by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In that part of his speech in which he served notice that he proposes to administer the discipline of public disapproval to hyphenated Americans, the president remarked: "I know of no body of persons comparable to a body of ladies for creating an atmosphere of opinion."

Immediately after he said smilingly: "I have myself, in part, yielded to the influence of that atmosphere."

The president's hearers just would not believe that he had had the suffrage issue in mind when he began his sentence, and Mrs. Galt herself blushed prettily in recognition of the applause.

Mrs. Galt, with her mother and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, had driven to Continental hall in one of the White House autos. The president walked over, accompanied by his military aide, Colonel Hart, and the secret service men. Before he left the White House he had stood for several minutes leaning over the side of the auto, having a pleasant tête-à-tête with Mrs. Galt.

Curious persons passing through the White House grounds thought it a very interesting sight to observe the president of the United States standing with one foot on the step of an automobile, talking to a lady. They got the impression from the animated character of the conversation between the two that Mrs. Galt was disappointed because the president was not going to escort her to Continental hall, and that she was trying to persuade him to abandon his plan of walking over.

President Wilson's impetuosity as a bridegroom to be is keeping the secret service men on the jump nearly all the time. More frequently than he ever done in the past, the president leaves the White House unattended and without giving warning to his bodyguards. He did this when he started for Mrs. Galt's residence, where he was to be a dinner guest, and again when he walked down town to purchase a new traveling bag.

Society people are as much interested as ever in the plans of the couple, but little has been learned definitely as yet. No disclosure was made of the date of the wedding and similar secrecy has been maintained as to their honeymoon plans. It is known that the Misses Smith of New Orleans, relatives of the president, are urging that the honeymoon be spent at Pass Christian, Miss., where Mr. Wilson and his family spent the Christmas holidays two years ago.

Congratulations of the supreme court on his engagement were extended to the president when the supreme court called formally to pay their respects on the occasion of the convening of the court for the fall sittings.

The justices were received in the blue room. They were attired in their judicial robes and all members were present with the exception of Justice Lamar.

HUNT FOR STOLEN JEWELRY

Reward of $5,000 Offered For Gems Stolen at Manchester, Mass.

Boston, Oct. 12.—A reward of $5,000 and "no questions asked" has been offered for the return of the $75,000 worth of jewelry stolen from the summer residence of Mrs. James McMillan at Manchester.

The offer was made in advertisements and it is evident that the insurance brokers fear that some of the jewelry has already been broken up and disposed of as indicated by the statement that a suitable reward will be paid for the return of any part of the property.

The brokers had placed $50,000 in insurance on the gems owned by Mrs.

Mary McMillan, but not all of it was

ARMENIANS ANNIBILATED

Is it possible that the oldest and largest Christian people of Asia Minor is to suffer complete extinction at the hands of the diabolical Turkish regime? During these war times when the voice of the Christian civilization is drowned by the tumult of war, this very thing is taking place.

The deportation of two millions of Armenians is now being completed. They are being scattered throughout the length and breadth of Turkey, and being subjected to the most tragic treatment. Much of the cruelty and unspeakable tragic results of this move is under strict censorship in our own country because of the present world conditions.

All Armenian males from 18 to 50 years of age are nominally in the Turkish army; but the fact of the matter, the distrusted ones are virtually prisoners of war and in many instances are in a system of slavery remote from the field of battle.

According to a ruling last spring most Armenian men paid the military exemption tax and those disqualified for service on account of sickness suffered wholesale imprisonment. As soon as this had been done, deportation began. The few men left, women and children, the aged, the sick went on the road together at a few hours notice, being driven in herds to their fate. In some cases these herds of Christian people were forced to journey for sixty days in the desert, with scant provision, if any for food and water, the alternative being forced conversion to Islam, and for the women a life of immorality.

Will Christian civilization allow all this and worse to go on without raising her voice in protest before God and humanity?

LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT

Today the great National Campaign of the Laymen's Missionary Movement is to open its first convention in Chicago to last till Sunday night. This is the first of a great series of conventions, numbering seventy-five to be held in as many cities in thirty-seven states. These are to consist of men only. The slogan adopted by the committees in charge is "Every Man in Every Church" and the purpose of the conventions is "To Encourage the Church to undertake her whole task."

The main objectives of the campaign are as follows: To study the missionary progress of recent years; to consider new world conditions and America's enlarged responsibility; to project plans looking forward to our whole missionary duty; to increase the spiritual power and efficiency of the local church; to inspire laymen to take their part in the extension of the Kingdom of Christ.

No greater movement has been set in motion than this one. When the men of the church once get wakened to their duty, and learn how to use their dollars and business sense along with their enthusiasm for the salvation of souls, the Kingdom of Christ will receive a boost that never before has been known.

This movement is not a denominational one; but an interdenominational organization; so you my brother may have a living interest in this great and good move for the extension of His Kingdom.

FIRST HAND KNOWLEDGE THE BEST

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., recently has been securing some knowledge of this kind as to the conditions of his mining project in Colorado. At first he went among his workmen in disguise, but was soon recognized and then went about his investigations openly. He has endeavored to find the worker's point of view and has shared the miner's meals, as well as their shelter, has gone into the mines and mills and talked with the men and their wives. He was surprised to see the tendency that his visit had to simplify and relieve the strained situation. He has held conferences with the officials of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company at Denver to lay plans for changes and improvements in the working and living conditions of the employees of the company.

JOE SMITH A FAILURE

Inventors of religions fail nine times out of every ten in a few years. Only seventy-five years ago Joe Smith, the Mormon religion inventor, put out his new creed and gained many adherents. The system was uniquely gotten up, supposedly on a sound basis; but in the time indicated above it is positively exploded. As the new students of Egyptian symbols, and translators of the hieroglyphics have gotten to work; many of these of the Mormon religious sect, have exposed the errors of the inventor.

At present there is a loud cry against the promoters of this false religion. Many of the so called elders who go about the country engaged in the propaganda of the Mormon religion, are ignorant of the real error that they are presenting to the public. They are received and entertained by good and innocent people through the mountaineers who have not had an opportunity to investigate the system farther than the traveling representatives may choose to enlighten them.

It is time that the good people are warned against these impostors. They should not receive the welcome in our homes that our established ministers of the true Gospel are due. They act as poison in our families. The literature they scatter about the neighborhood cannot do other than injure the peace and harmony that exists in your little church. Do not be deceived by their preaching; as it sounds good to the minds of those who have not given it any thought. Back of it all is the diabolical errors of its founder.

Albinos.

Albino is a term first applied by the Portuguese to the white negroes of West Africa and is now applied to any individual in whom there is congenital deficiency of pigment in skin, hair, iris and choroid of the eye. The skin is abnormally pale, the hair is white or pale flaxen, and the iris is pink. The absence of pigment in the iris renders an albino's eyes sensitive and partially blind in the sunlight. The chief predisposing cause is heredity. It may also be due to congenital arrest of development and is sometimes associated with other malformations, but it often occurs in persons who are otherwise normal. White mice, white rabbits, white elephants, etc., are albinos.

TROOPS JOIN THE CARRANZA FORCE

FOUR GENERALS AND THEIR COMMANDS QUIT VILLA—CHIEF ORDERS EXECUTIONS

Of Bodyguard and Civilians Involved in Plot—Safety of Americans Is Not To Be Assured.

Western Newspaper Union News Service
El Paso, Texas.—Following the decision of the United States to recognize Carranza Gen. Villa's troops are deserting him by the hundreds at Casas Grande. Four of his generals have gone over to Carranza. Upon his arrival at Casas Grande from Juarez Villa discovered that the news of Carranza's recognition had preceded him by telegraph and that 2,000 of his troops had mutinied and had left with Gens. Acosta, Caballero, Sanchez and Acuña. When he learned of this Villa flew into a rage and ordered the immediate execution of two of his "guard of gold" and six civil officials, suspected of having been implicated in the mutiny plot. This information was brought to the border by a Carranza spy who has been at Casas Grande with Villa's troops. Villa also was reported to have ordered the execution of Sebastian Vargas, his secretary of the treasury, on a charge of treason. Villa has issued a decree, suspending all guarantees for the safety of Americans and other foreigners in his territory, and decreeing that all Carranza sympathizers who are caught shall be executed. Villa agents are rushing millions of rounds of ammunition to Juarez in anticipation of an early embargo.

PULLED FROM PILOT OF ENGINE

Chicago.—As a Chicago and Northwestern passenger train approached a crossing between Winnetka and Glenview the engineer caught a glimpse of an automobile racing toward the tracks. He threw on the brakes. A moment later there was a crash and an explosion. Until the train came to a stop, the engineer, looking from his cab window, could see only a wall of flame roaring from the pilot of the locomotive. An explosion of the gas-line tank threw the fluid on the clothing of the dead chauffeur.

WHEELS FLY OFF; TWO KILLED

Chicago.—Two Chicago men were killed and one Chicago and two Milwaukee men injured when a touring car left the road near Aurora and landed upside down, in a corn field. About a mile south of Aurora one of the front wheels flew off the machine and it rolled over and over down an embankment into a field.

FIVE STEAMERS WERE SEIZED.

London.—Five more steamers have been detained at Kirkwall. They are the Swedish St. John and the Ester, the Danish Absalom, the Norwegian Origen and the Standard Oil tank steamer Petrolite, under American registry. The cargo of the Norwegian steamer Vitalia, which was thrown into the prize court September 28, is being held on the ground that it is conditional contraband. The British government contended that there were fats and oils in the cargo, which were not consigned to the Netherlands trust.

CLASSIFIED TAXES.

Whenever there is any talk about a lower rate of taxes on intangible personal property a great howl goes up from the owners of tangible property, who affect to believe it is a gross injustice. Intangible personalty consists mostly of Stocks, Bonds, Notes, Cash, Accounts, Mortgages, and other such evidences of enterprise, all of which are limited by law or custom to a certain percent of earnings. No other kind of property has the limits of its profits fixed by law. A man may lawfully earn all he can in his store, his shop or on his farm. He may charge what he pleases for his professional services, for his manufactured wares, for his cattle, his hogs and his corn, wheat and tobacco, but when he comes to lending money, which the investment in securities includes, he is strictly limited to a gross income never exceeding six per cent, and is fair to exact half or more of his income for taxes when others get off with perhaps one-tenth of their earnings from other kinds of invested property, farming, professions and business? The argument is all in favor of the money lender, as his capital is essential to all industrial improvement and cheap money greases the wheels of progress and prosperity.

TAX AMENDMENT

TO BE VOTED ON AT THE NOVEMBER ELECTION.

The Tax Amendment to be again voted on at the November Election will, if adopted, authorize the Legislature to enact a new Tax Law that will subject the enormous amount of personal property in the shape of Stocks, Bonds, Notes and accounts now escaping taxation to a fair share of the burden and reduce the taxes on Land and Improvements. Every taxpayer should vote for it, as any Law enacted under its provisions must be ratified by the people before it can be enforced and this guarantees a fair Law.

The Amendment.

"The General Assembly shall provide by law an annual tax, which, with other resources, shall be sufficient to defray the estimated expenses of the Commonwealth for each fiscal year. Taxes shall be levied and collected for public purposes only and shall be uniform upon all property of the same class subject to taxation within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax; and all taxes shall be levied and collected by general laws.

"The General Assembly shall have power to divide property into classes and to determine what class or classes of property shall be subject to local taxation. Bonds of the State and of Counties, municipalities, taxing and school districts shall not be subject to taxation.

"Any law passed or enacted by the General Assembly pursuant to the provisions of or under this amendment or amended section of the constitution, classifying property and providing a lower rate of taxation on personal property, tangible or intangible, that upon real estate, shall be subject to the referendum power of the people."

This amendment was ratified by an enormous majority at the election in 1912 but was pronounced invalid by the Court of Appeals because it had been advertised only sixty, instead of ninety, days as the Constitution provides.

It has been advertised in legal form and in time for this year's election and should receive a larger majority than before, as Tax paying voters had time to study the question and discover the faults in the present Tax Law.

REPORT OF WISCONSIN TAX COMMISSION.

"Justice in taxation can only be attained by strict compliance with the law. This is proven by universal experience. There is no other way. With rare exceptions, when an assessor violates the law and sets up a standard of his own he either inflicts an injury upon some individual taxpayer or else he does injustice to every other taxpayer in the State. As a general rule, every step he takes outside the straight and narrow path provided by law leads to greater and more glaring inequalities, and in many cases * * * degenerates into a mere travesty on justice."

FROM REPORT OF KENTUCKY TAX COMMISSION, 1909.

"There are two reasons why the general property tax has failed in operation. First, because under modern conditions it cannot be enforced effectively. Secondly, because of a more or less conscious recognition of the fact that strict enforcement would result in a still greater injustice than now prevails."

"The attempt to tax all property at a uniform standard of valuation and at the same rate, regardless of its special characteristics, earning power or the benefits derived from the expenditures of government, violates the primary rules of just taxation and offends the natural sense of justice."

DON'T FAIL TO VOTE FOR THE TAX AMENDMENT

Goodness in a Dungeon

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL
Assistant to the Dean, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—He was there in the prison. But the Lord was with Joseph.—Gen. 39:20, 21.

Joseph's prison was made gloomy by physical discomfort; by the mystery of his suffering, although an innocent man; and by the fact that after his kindness to the chief butler the latter forgot him. Yet there was light in the prison and that in several directions. Prisoners of the Lord.

To begin with, the text tells us that the Lord was with Joseph. As we express it sometimes in singing one of our hymns:

Prisons would palaces prove
If Jesus would dwell with me there.

Paul was enabled to write the epistle to the Philippians with its keyword, "Rejoice," from the Roman prison. John Bunyan in his "den" at Bedford saw Immanuel's land and the Delectable mountains. Madam Guyon said the Lord had shut her up in prison like a bird, with nothing to do but sing.

Again, the Lord gave Joseph favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison (Gen. 39:21). The hearts of kings are in the hand of God and his afflicted people may be certain that God is not at a loss when he wishes to relieve them. Stories more fascinating than fiction could be written from the lives of Christians who have been given favor in the sight of the great ones of earth.

The Lord kept Joseph unselfish. Most of us would have felt justified in nursing our troubles, but this man had "a heart at leisure from itself, to soothe and sympathize." One morning Joseph noticed that his fellow prisoners, the butler and baker, looked sad. He immediately inquired the cause and proceeded to help them to the best of his ability. After all, the best way to bear one's burdens is to help bear the burdens of others. Moreover, although Joseph little realized it, his interest in these prisoners marked a crisis in his life; as a result of it he finally came to the throne of Egypt, but he was ready for the crisis only because he was daily caring for the interests of others. How little we know of the crises which every day will bring forth, and how we need to walk habitually so as to please God if we are to meet these crises adequately!

It is evident that the Lord preserved the faith of Joseph. We recall his own dreams when in his father's house, and the assurance they gave him that he would come to a place of elevation over his father and brethren; but here he was in the dungeon and he would have seemed justified had he lost faith in dreams. Yet that this was not the case is evident from his interpretation of the dreams of the butler and baker, and his confidence that God would bring them to pass. Psalm 105:19 (R. V.) tells us that "until the time that his word came to pass, the word of the Lord tried."

The Lord kept Joseph unrelenting. When speaking with the chief butler he said, "I have done nothing that they should put me into the dungeon" (Gen. 40:15). Not a word does he utter concerning that wicked woman, Potiphar's wife, who had designed his ruin. How slow even Christians are to learn that they need do no unkind thing in order to fulfill the plans of God! "He shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light and thy judgment as the noonday."

Hoping in God. Altogether, God was training Joseph to hope in himself alone and to obey him in any event. Doubtless his hopes of deliverance were high when the chief butler left the prison, yet two long years passed before deliverance came. By the grace of God Joseph was kept from growing rebellious, but persisted in the way of duty. When God finds a man who will plod on, delighting to do his will under all circumstances, he will quickly set him in a large place and put a scepter in his hand. Joseph was in training for a throne and so are all true followers of Christ.

What a misfortune if the chief butler had remembered Joseph according to his promise! Joseph might have been delivered from the prison and sent away a free man out of the land, but scarcely more than this. How his story encourages us to trust and not be afraid!

The Christian's Easy Chair. An aged Christian woman living in deep poverty was asked how she bore her troubles. She said when they became especially heavy she sat in her easy chair and rocked them away. The visitor looked about for this wonderful chair, but saw no trace of it, until finally the happy saint explained that it was Romans 8:28, "All things work together for good to them that love God."

He became an open rejector of the heathen gods and a professed follower of Jehovah when he returned to Damascus. As such he became the ministering prince.

III. The Ministering Prince. (1) By public profession (see Rom. 10:9, 10; Matt. 10:32) (2) By a peculiar request which became a great object lesson in Damascus; (3) By a new purpose of heart which would change his future course of action.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 17.

ELISHA HEALS NAAMAN THE SYRIAN.

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 8:10, 14. GOLDEN TEXT—I am Jehovah that healeth thee.—Ex. 15:26.

Read carefully the intervening Scripture following last Sunday's lesson to get the account of Elisha's activities. There is recorded the story of the poisoned fountain (2:19-22). The "hoodum" gang (vv. 23, 24) which is a story for boys. Note: Elisha had nothing to do with the bears, nor does the record say that the bears killed the boys. Next the story of the Widow's oil (4:1-7). Finally, the suggestive stories of the Shunammite woman (vv. 8-37), and the feeding of the prophets and the people (vv. 38-44).

Now we come to Elisha's most famous experience, that with Naaman of Damascus. This city is reputed to be the oldest in the world and is situated about 100 miles (air line) northeast of Samaria. This event probably occurred between 904 and 894 B. C.

MOUNTAIN AGRICULTURE

Conducted by Mr. Robert F. Spence, Farm Demonstrator and Special Investigator

LETTER FROM S. P. CAUDILL,
Proprietor of Valley View Farm
Conway, Ky., Oct. 5.
Mr. Robert F. Spence, County Agent,
Berea, Ky.

Dear Mr. Spence:

I take this method of congratulating you for the splendid work you have done in this community on progressive farming.

I can see quite a marked improvement in the way the farmers are handling their farms and the results they are getting.

The farmers are certainly making rapid steps in the conservation and preservation of soil fertility.

Further I wish to make mention of the great improvement you are getting started in the live stock industry, and I think when this industry is perfected, the farmers will realize much greater dividends. The farmers' clubs you are organizing are proving to be a great benefit especially in marketing our products. No doubt these clubs are primary steps to a greater central organization of the farmers, all over this country, which will put this great farming industry on a solid cooperative basis as are the other great industries.

The progressive spirit is distinctly observed in many homes and all of us are living better in general. I wish you much success in the advancement of agriculture and better conditions in the rural homes.

LETTER FROM MARION A. CHASTEN, A FORMER STUDENT OF BEREA COLLEGE; NOW A PROGRESSIVE FARMER

Conway, Ky., Oct. 7, 1915.

R. F. Spence,
County Agent, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Berea, Ky.

Dear Sir:

I wish to call your attention to the conditions as they were in this section five years ago. At that time this was not considered a farming section at all. Land was not expensive but under the conditions that people farmed then it was not valuable or considered valuable. I saw possibilities here in a little farm which I purchased and I have been here ever since. Am producing more than three times as much to the acre now as was possible to produce when I came here. Many of my neighbors are doing the same thing.

Five years ago corn would perhaps average 15 to 20 bushel per acre and millet and cane were about the only other crops grown then for hay. Little thought was given then to pure-bred stock; a hog was simply a hog, a cow simply a cow, and a horse a horse and that was about all any one could call them as it would have been impossible to have traced their origin. But what was the difference, no one cared then. Stock were known more by their markings or color than, namely, "that spotted sow of mine, my one-eyed mare or my bob-tailed mule."

I am glad to say that conditions have changed and farmers are awakening to their possibilities.

Corn will average fifty bushels to the acre now on this improved land, timothy and red top hay averaging from two to two and one-half tons per acre and cowpeas and clover have been worked in rotation; thus it is easy to see that more stock can be raised with greater profit and at the same time build up the land.

Farmers are more interested in pure-bred stock now than ever. Since they have tried them they find that there is more profit to be gained by that kind than by the scrub.

We are also learning the lesson of co-operation. To buy through co-operation is much more profitable than trying it single-handed. One good illustration of what it means is that through co-operation we were able to buy 16 per cent acid phosphate as low as $12.75 per ton, whereas, formerly we paid $20 per ton.

Much of these good things I feel that we owe to the County agent, and it is in appreciation of these things that I write you this letter.

I know the Government is doing much to our interest in sending out the free bulletins on most any subject that a farmer would desire; but I feel that it would be as impossible to get farmers aroused by this means as it would to lay down preaching and expect to convert the world by the distribution of Bibles and Christian literature, as there are so many farmers that do not read. However as soon as the farmer is aroused by a good personal talk, such as our County Agent is in position to give, he gets the spirit, takes new life in his possibilities and goes forward with new hope and new ambition. If he can read, it will only be a short time boys and girls should have.

until you will see him passing away many a winter day when he cannot work, reading some farm journal; and perhaps a number of them, also you see him taking advantage of the Government free literature.

There are so many farmers in this community that need arousing, and there are many things that we all need to learn that I can only say that we are just merely started. I would like to see every farmer in this valley who owns an acre of land, so well posted on the possibilities of his acre that he will know exactly how to handle that acre to its best advantage, making it pay the greatest dividend and at the same time know how to handle it that in years to come it will be a better acre of land than when he produced his first crop.

As soon as we farmers have learned such lessons, and have been able to start a bank account in addition to our expenses, that soon may we hope to see conditions far more desirable in rural life. It is then that we may expect better schools, better churches and better roads and the lives of farmers and their families brightened.

I wish to thank you for what you have done, and hope that it may be possible for you to be with us more in the near future.

MAGOFFIN COUNTY IS PROGRESSING

It was my privilege this past week to make a trip into Magoffin County to talk on "Agriculture and Rural Betterment" at the request of Superintendent Elam and President Frost.

I am glad to say that I found Magoffin County progressing in several respects. In the first place the homes of this County are better than the average. The lawns are cleaner, the houses have more paint and the fence corners are freer from briars than some mountain counties.

Magoffin County has 5,000 children in the rural schools and the school tax averages seventy-five cents to the pupil, which makes a total of $3,750 annually. So they must necessarily go slowly toward the building of better schoolhouses; but they are going up. Up until this time their schools have not been graded. Often they have had boys between the ages of seventeen and twenty just completing the eighth grades; but through the efforts of Superintendent Elam and our own Parmell Picklesimer, who is now supervisor of schools, the schools are being graded in such a way that boys and girls will finish the eighth grades by the time they are fourteen. Not only is Picklesimer grading these schools, but he is having the children make corn testers, select seed corn, prune fruit trees, using slides, giving demonstrations on sanitation and health, etc., making out of these demonstrations their grammar and arithmetic. While these boys are learning grammar and arithmetic they are getting information which will help them to live. The kind our rural schools, select seed corn, prune fruit trees, using slides, giving demonstrations on sanitation and health, etc., making out of these demonstrations their grammar and arithmetic. While these boys are learning grammar and arithmetic they are getting information which will help them to live. The kind our rural

The prospective members of the sophomore class met last week and organized for the year. The following officers were elected: President, Ray St. Clair; Vice-president, Thomas Baird; Secretary, Miss Elsie Atzenhofer; treasurer, Clarence Hoffman; chairman of the Social Committee, Miss Susie Holliday.

MOUNTAIN DAY

Monday morning almost every student of the Foundation School went to the hills to celebrate Mountain Day. Several walking parties left early. For those who preferred to ride, wagons were provided. It was a beautiful day and gave a great opportunity to see the wonderful scenery in the mountains near Berea.

ROAD WORKING

The Normal Department is arranging for its annual road working, which will be held on October 20th. This will be the third event of this kind which the Normal Department carried out. The students will go out and scientifically improve some section of road near Berea under experienced management, thus learning the elements of road building and becoming filled with the "better roads" spirit.

BEREA CLOSED TO ALL BUT MOUNTAIN STUDENTS

In view of the fact that nearly all the accommodations of Berea College, Normal School, Academy, Vocational School and Foundation School are full, it is decided that all the remaining space must be reserved for students from the mountains.

Hitherto, although Berea has sent its invitation to the mountains only, students from other parts of the country have been received. Those now here will be most cordially received and taken care of; but no more can be received until our buildings are greatly increased.

Students outside the mountains have other schools.

The mountain region of Kentucky is defined as including the following counties:

INTER-SCHOLASTIC DEBATE

The members of the Academy and Normal Departments had cause to rejoice last week when it was announced that the Cabinet had granted them inter-scholastic debate. The men of the Academy and Normal literary societies had come to realize that a society can not long endure without some kind of healthy competition. Each society was looking for some one with whom to compete and had their desires fulfilled when they were granted inter-scholastic debate.

PICKETT SPEAKS

Rev. L. P. Pickett, Prohibition candidate for Governor, spoke in Berea on Tuesday night.

Pickett is well known as a tireless worker for the uplift of humanity, and he was greeted by a large audience of students and citizens. Really we had forgotten what a rich voice and keen wit and able mind and warm heart belong to Brother Pickett. He would certainly make a good governor, and considering the fact that both the Republican and Democratic parties this year stand for whisky, he will certainly have the votes of a large number of our best citizens.

FIFTY-SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

On Wednesday evening, October 6th, Phi Delta Literary Society celebrated its fifty-sixth anniversary in Main Chapel. The following program was rendered:

Invocation, — Professor Baird. Music, — Quartet. Address, — President Griffin. Oration, "Education for World Peace," — Alfred Sides. Essay, "Mother Love," — Joseph VanHook.

"The Weathercock," — Lloyd Biggerstaff, Ray St. Clair.

Lecture, "The New South," — Creed Harrison.

Music, — Quartet.

The program was typical of the regular weekly programs and was representative of the work which Phi Delta is now doing.

COLLEGE SOCIAL

Friday evening the students of the College Department were entertained at the home of President and Mrs. Frost. Miss Welch continued the story of her adventures in the West during the summer. She gave a vivid description of the descent into the Grand Canyon, which was instructive and replete with humor.

President Frost read some select poems which were heartily appreciated. The remainder of the evening was spent in the singing of college songs. At the close, social privileges were given, and thus the hour was made one complete success and bursts of its merriment are still echoing over the campus.

ENGAGE ROOMS NOW

Notice is hereby given that all young people wishing to attend Berea the coming winter must engage their rooms, at once as the supply of rooms is nearly exhausted. There is no more room for Academy or Foundation students and the other departments are nearly full.

No room is engaged until a dollar deposit is made, the same to be forfeited unless the student is here or has paid room rent in full by the end of the first day of the Winter Term.

JOINT MEETING

Saturday evening Alpha Zeta and Phi Delta Literary Societies met in a joint session to discuss the advisability of inter-collegiate debate. The Normal and Academy societies have adopted inter-scholastic debate and many of the College men thought the College societies should seek an opportunity for debate with other colleges. The final consensus of opinion was that the president of each society should appoint a committee to make investigation of the matter. This was done.

JUNIOR CLASS SUPPER

Monday evening the Junior Class repaired to The Point for supper. On arriving at the place, some of the more energetic members built a huge bonfire. While the cooks were preparing supper all others were free to roam about the grove which they accordingly did. The meal was served in the best of taste. After supper College songs were sung and at seven o'clock all returned feeling that the first social event had been a success.

ENGAGE ROOMS FOR WINTER

The attendance of students for the Winter Term will be closely limited by the lack of buildings to accommodate the increased number of students. All young people desiring to attend any department of Berea College the coming winter should write at once, sending the dollar deposit for a room. Address:

Secretary.

BARNUM AND BAILEY

Have Hundreds of
New Features

The Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth, which comes to Richmond on Friday, Oct. 15, claim to present this year "A Circus of All Nations," meaning one that is filled with all new features shown now for the first time and presented by 480 world-famed artists who represent every nation in the world. The entire world has been scouring by special Barnum and Bailey agents so that practically all the arena stars that are really worth seeing take part.

The time-honored custom has always been to refer to each successive year's circus as "bigger and better than ever," but the phrase has become so hackneyed that, this year, Barnum and Bailey hesitate to use it, despite the fact that it adequately describes the entertainment. More railroad cars are required to transport the show than ever before. In fact, the circus has reached a point where it is the despair of many of the smaller railroads and taxes their facilities to the limit, for eighty-five cars are needed to convey the gigantic canvas city from town to town.

There's material enough in this year's circus to make a dozen circuses of the old days. A "big top" 680 feet long, nearly 1,500 employees, three rings, four elevated platforms, acres of aerial apparatus, the biggest stage ever erected for a dramatic presentation, a 110-cage menagerie, 750 horses, forty elephants, a street parade three miles long.

Among the novelties offered this season are the "Six Riding Hannafords," "The Paldrens," balancing, pyramiding and head jumping on the tops of burning lamps, "Pallenberg's Wonder Bears," "Adgie" and her den of nine performing African lions, Barnum and Bailey statue horses, Madam Bradna's Angel Horses. Three great herds of war elephants, trained and shown by the first and only lady elephant trainers. Besides these, are 60 aerialists, 60 riders, 60 acrobats and 60 clowns.

A wonderful prelude to this great circus is the presentation of the new, magnificent, spectacular pageant, "Lalla Rookh" in which more than 100 characters take part. Everyone should get an early start on circus day in order to be there in time for the parade which starts at 10 a.m., and which is said to be three miles long.

OLD-FASHIONED WEATHER SIGNS

In its current issue, Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published in Springfield, O., says, of course, that the best weather prophet in the world is the United States Weather Bureau, which is right at least four times out of five. In regard to the less scientific guides Farm and Fireside says:

"Here are a few weather signs which are older probably than any one living today. Experience has shown them to be fairly reliable, and some of them can be explained on a scientific basis:

"Moonlight nights have the heaviest frosts.

"The higher the clouds the finer the weather.

"The farther the sight the nearer the rain.

"Dew is an indication of fine weather.

"When stars flicker in a dark background, rain or snow follows soon.

"Expect a strong wind with stormy weather when smoke from chimneys hangs near the ground.

"Here are a few in verse. They have the advantage of being easily remembered:

"Clear moon,
Frost soon.

"Year of snow
Fruit will grow

"Rain before seven
Fine before eleven.

"If the sun set in gray
The next will be a rainy day.

"When the wind's in the south
The rain's in its mouth.
The wind in the west
Suits everyone best.

"If you see grass in January
Lock your grain in your granary.

"Evening red and morning gray
Help the traveler on his way;
Evening gray and morning red
Bring down rain upon his head.
When the clouds appear like rocks and towers,
The earth's refreshed by frequent showers.

"If you can get the official weather report by phone you'd better count on that first. But the proverbs and jingles just given are better than a common guess."

SAYS DOCTORS OUGHT TO BE PAID BY THE GOVERNMENT

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside, the national farm paper published in Springfield, O., Herbert Quick, the editor, discusses the doctors' fees — especially the fees charged to farmers by doctors. A wide discussion of this subject has been going on among farmers in various parts of the country. Many farmers claim that the prices charged by doctors are exorbitantly high. Mr. Quick defends the doctors and explains why their charges are not so high as they appear. At the end of his article he makes the following suggestion:

"But I feel sure that we shall finally come to see that it is to the interest of the Government — state, county, or local — to look after everyone's health, and that doctors will become public officers who will win their spurs by keeping people well. When that time comes we shall all pay our doctors' bills when we pay our taxes, and every case of sickness may be treated free by the doctors of the board of health.

"My friend, the medical professor, says it has got to come to this, and that we shall not get rid of extortionate charges until it does."

SAYS LIGHTNING RODS ARE ALL RIGHT

Farm and Fireside says: "A building without lightning rods is nine times as likely to be struck as one with lightning rods. This is according to insurance-company records."

Life's great results are something slow.—Howells.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED AT OCTOBER MEETING OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF KENTUCKY MINE OWNERS ASSOCIATION

In connection with certain radical advances in freight rates already determined upon by a number of railroads serving competitive coal fields in West Virginia and elsewhere, it is proposed that railroads serving Kentucky's coal fields, similarly advance their rates, and thereby place an additional burden on practically every ton of coal moving from Kentucky to markets north of the Ohio River. Meanwhile rates on coal mined in certain northern coal fields are not to be advanced.

The coal industry of Kentucky during the past several years has increased, until it is first among the industries of the State in point of number of people employed, and second in point of the value of its annual output. Its recent growth has been almost altogether due to securing new markets in the territory to which this proposed rate advance would apply. The exaction by Kentucky railroads and their connections of the advanced rates in view, would place a handicap on the further extension of these northern markets, and even threaten the retention of those that have been won after long struggles against many difficulties.

The Kentucky Mine Owners Association therefore wishes to make known its earnest opposition to any advance in freight rates on Kentucky coal, and hereby enters its solemn protest against the increase now being proposed.

FALL FASHIONS INFLUENCED BY THE WAR

In the September Woman's Home Companion, Grace Margaret Gould, the fashion editor, gives the news of the fall fashions. Following is a brief extract from her report:

"The masquerade is over! And I, for one, am thankful. Women are now going to dress like real women, and no longer need imitate a bag, a box, a walking stick or a toadstool. Instead of cultivating grotesque lines we may make the most of the lines we have. The change is from queer to quiet, and from freak to form.

"How do I know?" you ask? Simply by applying expert advice and experience, just as one peers through a big telescope in the hope of seeing other celestial bodies invisible to the naked eye.

"Much of this change—many of the new ideas in dress—have been influenced by the war. It could not be otherwise. Paris and Fashion always go hand in hand. It has saddened the former and sobered the latter."

JACKSON STREET IMPROVEMENT LEAGUE

The citizens of Jackson street have made a progressive step toward greater improvement, and beautifying their street.

Jackson street has a greater range of unbroken scenery than any other street in any town in Madison County, and the citizens have set the pace in Berea by perfecting the first street organization in town.

They have had two meetings and at the last one the Jackson street Improvement League was organized with John F. Dean, President, and Marshall E. Vaughn, Secretary and Treasurer.

Following the organization of the League the Town Board were called upon for street repairs. The Board promised to gravel the street from one end to the other and build the Elder street crossing. A greater Berea is our cry.

IN OUR OWN STATE

(Continued from Page One) dockets were chiefly worked on and with considerable rapidity. Only one case was tried on the civil docket — that of the Wisconsin Steel Company vs. H. C. Lewis, and Rhoda E. Lewis, which consumed the last two weeks of the term. The jury made a verdict granting the plaintiff a portion of the tract of land in question, but the greater part to the defendants. Owing to the crowded civil docket the Court made an order calling for a special term to begin on the 29th day of November to last four weeks.

Sucumb To Effects Of Fractured Skull

Wiley Hall, who was struck on the head by Jerry Dye at Slag Camp on Monday, August 9th, died last Monday afternoon from the effects of the blow. After being struck Hall was taken to a Lexington hospital and for some time hovered between life and death. Finally he recovered sufficiently to return to his home, and while he went about some, never fully recovered from the effects of the blow which eventually was the cause of his death. Dye was never arrested for the offense and is still at large.

The trouble between the two men arose while they were working the road with others when a heated argument came up between them over a school election. During the war of words it is said that Dye slipped the handle from his mattock and dealt Hall two crushing blows over the head, the first one dazing him and the second one rendering him unconscious.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE DROPS

Experts Declare Elimination of Pound Sterling Only Remedy.

New York, Oct. 12.—Foreign exchange rates went down again in the face of the successful flotation of the $500,000,000 credit loan to Great Britain and France, to their lowest point since Sept. 15. So disquieting was the situation deemed that a three-hour meeting, attended by Wall street bankers and Sir Edward Holden, a member of the Anglo-French financial commission, was held late in the day at the National City bank for the reported purpose of devising some new method to bolster the value of the English pound sterling.

Foreign exchange experts were reported to be unanimously of the opinion that there would be only one remedy left when the proceeds of the $500,000,000 loan would have been spent—the virtual elimination of the pound sterling as the standard of world finance and the substitution of the dollar instead.

CHAPTER III.

A Mysterious Guest.

O course, as soon as Brick's eyes could penetrate the semi-gloom sufficiently to distinguish small objects, he saw the proof, but even before that the air seemed tingling with some strange personality. He stood like a statue, gazing fixedly. His alert eyes, always on guard, had assured him that the cove was deserted. There was no use to look behind him. Whoever had been there must have scaled the mountain and had either crossed to the plain on the north or was hiding behind the rocks. What held his eyes to the stove was a heap of tobacco and a clay pipe beside it.

After a few minutes of immobility he entered, placed the meat on a box and departed softly, closing the door behind him. Casting apprehensive glances along the mountainside, he stole toward it and made his way up the gully. Not pausing at the crevice, he went on to the outer northern ridge of the range and, lying flat among some high rocks, looked down.

He counted seventeen men near the spot from which he had removed the wagon. Fifteen were on horseback, and two riderless horses explained the presence of the two on foot. All of them had drawn up in a circle about the heap of stones that covered the woman's burial place. Of the seventeen, sixteen were Indians, painted and adorned for the warpath. The remaining man, he who stood at the heap of stones beside the chief, was a white man, and at the first glance Willock recognized him. He was the dead woman's husband, Henry Gledware.

Brick's mind was perplexed with vain questionings. Was it Gledware who had visited his dugout or the Indians? Did the pipe and tobacco indicate a peace offering? What was the relationship between Gledware and these Indians? Was he their prisoner, and were they about to burn him upon the heap of stones? He did not seem alarmed. Had he made friends with the chief by promising to conduct him to the deserted wagon? If so, what would they think in regard to the wagon's disappearance? Had the dugout persuaded them that there was no other retreat in the mountains?

While Brick watched in agitated suspense several Indians leaped to the ground at a signal from the chief and advanced toward the white man. The chief turned his back upon the company and started toward the mountain, his face turned toward Brick's place of observation. He began climbing upward, the red feather in his hair gleaming against the green of the cedars. Brick had but to remain where he was to reach forth his hand presently and seize the warrior, but in that case those on the plain would come swarming up the ascent for vengeance.

Brick darted from his post, swept like a dipping swallow across the ravine and, snatching up the rope ladder from its nook under the bowlder, scurried down into the granite chamber. Having removed the ladder, he crept to the extremity of the excavation and with his back against the wall and his gun held in readiness awaited the coming of the chief. After the lapse of many minutes he grew reassured. The Indian, thinking the dugout his only home, had passed the crevice without the slightest suspicion.

However, lost in thrusting forth his head to call attention to his home in the rock, he kept in retreat the rest of that day. Nor did he venture forth that night.

One bright warm afternoon in October two years later Brick Willock sat smoking his pipe before the open door of his dugout. In repose he always sat when in the cove with his face toward the natural roadway. It was thus he hoped to prevent surprise from nimble horsemen, and it was thus that on this particular afternoon he detected a shadow creeping over the reddish brown stone passage.

At first glimpse of that shadow of a feathered head Willock flung himself down the dirt steps leading to the open door. Now, lying flat, he directed the barrel of his gun over the edge of the level ground, covering an approaching horseman. As only one Indian came into view and as the Indian was armed in a manner as astounding as it was irresistible, Willock rose to his height of six feet three, lowered his weapon and advanced to meet him.

When he was near, the Indian—the same chief from whom Willock had fled on the day of his intended house-warming—sprang lightly to the ground and lifted from the horse that he defense which he had borne in front of him on penetrating the cove. It was the child for whose sake Willock had separated himself from his kind.

At first Willock thought he was dreaming. The Indian made a sign to the little girl to remain with the horse, then he gilded forward, holding somewhat ostentatiously a filled pipe in his extended hand.

to the southwest. Looked like I'd die sometimes, just having myself to entertain."

"You lonesome, too?" said the girl, looking up incredulously. She drew a step nearer, a wistful light in her dark eyes.

The man stretched out his arms and dropped them to his side heavily. "Like that," he cried—"just emptiness!"

"I stay," she said simply.

"You ain't afraid now, are you, little one?"

She shook her head and, drawing nearer, seated herself on the ground before the dugout. "You look Big Hair," she explained sedately, "but your speech is talk of weak squaw."

Somewhat disconcerted by these words, Willock sat down opposite her and resumed his pipe as if to assert his sex. "I seem weak to you," he explained, "because I love you, child, and want to make friends with you. But let me meet a big man—well, you'd see, then!" He looked so ferocious as he uttered these words, that she started up like a frightened quail.

"No, no, honey," he cooed abjectly. "I wouldn't hurt a fly. How comes it that you ain't forgot to talk like civilized beings?"

"Red Feather, him always put me with squaw that know English—that been to school on the reservation. Never let me learn talk like the Indians. Him always say some day take me to my own people."

"Did he tell you your mother died two years ago?"

"Yes. Father, him dead too. Both died in the plains. Father was shot by robbers. Mother was left in big wagon. You bury her near this mountain."

"Oh, ho! So your father was killed at the same time your mother was, eh?"

"Well, all right. And now you got nobody but me to look after you. Just you tell me what you want, and it'll be done."

"Want to be all like white people: want to be just like mother."

"Well, I'll teach you as fur up as I've been myself. Your style of talk ain't correct, but it was the best Red Feather could do by you. I'll take you by the hand right from where Red Feather left you and carry you up the heights."

She examined him dubiously. "You know how?"

"I ain't no bellwether in the paths of learning, honey, but Red Feather is some miles behind me. What's your name?"

"Lahoma."

"Born that way or Injunized?"

"Father before he died him all time want to go settle in the Oklahoma country—settle on a claim with mother. They go there two times—three—but soldiers all time make them go back to Kansas. So me, I was born, and they named me Oklahoma, but all time they call me Lahoma. That I must be called, Lahoma, because that father and mother all time call me. Lahoma, that my name." She inquired anxiously.

"You call me Lahoma?" She leaned forward, hands upon knees, in breathless anxiety.

"Born your life I will, Lahoma!"

"Then me stay all time with you—all time. And you teach me talk right and dress right and be like mother and my white people? You teach me all that?"

"That's the program. I'm going to civilize you—that means to make you like white folks. It's going to take time, but the mountains are full of time."

"You 'civilize' me right now? You begin today?" She started up and stood erect with arms folded, evidently waiting for treatment.

"The process will be going on all the while you're associating with me, honey. That chief, Red Feather—he has a daughter, hasn't he?"

"No; him say no girl, no boy." She spoke with confidence.

"I see. And your father's dead, too, eh?" Evidently Red Feather had thoroughly convinced her of the truth of these pretenses.

"Both—mother, father. Nobody but me." She knelt down at his side, her face troubled. "If I had just one!"

"Can you remember either of them?"

"Oh, yes, yes! And Red Feather, him talk about them, talk, talk; always say me be white with the white people some day. This is the day. You make me like mother was. You vanished from her face, and her eyes sparkled with expectancy.

ANOTHER VIEWPOINT

"Single blessedness beats matrimony every time."

"Oh! I don't know. Matrimony has its advantages."

"You'll have to show me."

"Well, for example, a bachelor has to pay to attend lectures, while a married man gets his at home for nothing."

Their Longest Run

"Your show was the worst we have ever had here," said the manager of the Hicksville Opera House as he handed the manager of the Fly-by-Night company his share of the box office receipts.

"That's queer," said the manager of the company. "Why, when we played in Chicago we had the longest run in the history of the city."

"No; him say no girl, no boy." She spoke with confidence.

"I see. And your father's dead, too, eh?" Evidently Red Feather had thoroughly convinced her of the truth of these pretenses.

"Both—mother, father. Nobody but me." She knelt down at his side, her face troubled. "If I had just one!"

GOOD INVESTMENT

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN.

If a neighbor had not given little Johnny Gibson a penny for running an errand, and if Johnny himself, disdaining candy, had not invested the copper coin in a clay pipe, this brief exordium of human fatefulness would never have been written.

Pennies had been scarce with Johnny of late, and dimes with his father and mother. Were it not for Aunt Marcia they would not have had a roof over their heads. Then Mrs. Gibson was incapacitated through a severe illness lasting nearly a year, and Mr. Gibson lost his position and averaged less than two days' work in a week. Aunt Marcia, who gave music lessons, opened her house to them. There were pressing debts. To meet them Aunt Marcia had been compelled to place a mortgage on her little property, and this was the tormenting fact that nearly broke Mr. Gibson's heart.

Johnny was a very young aunt—only twenty-four, and fair as a flower. Practical life had made her somewhat serious, but she was kindness personified.

She was lovable, cheering, optimistic. She laughed at the dark fears of her anxious brother-in-law as to the future. She doubled her labors as music teacher.

"Why, brother," she would say hopefully, "all I may do for you dear people I consider a splendid investment. Think how it will all come back to me in a heap, when your luck turns and you get to making money again!"

Thus stood affairs upon the eventful morning when Johnny Gibson mounted the old horse block in front of the house, a basin of soap sud suds at hand, and began blowing bubbles.

A man of about forty, well dressed and suggesting the invalid and using a cane, came down the street. He watched the fast ascending air balloons like one of the idle rich on a carefree stroll. Then his eye became fixed on the youthful bubble blower. Johnny had just let loose a balloon of tremendous size.

"Glory!" he gloated—pop! the filmy thing of nothingness exploded. Crash!—the man watching him made a misstep across a broken sidewalk plank, stumbled headlong, landing against an old tree stump, and lay there, prostrate.

Johnny gave a great gasp. The pipe fell from his hands and shattered to fragments as he noticed a great red streak across the temple of the insensible man. He ran into the house, screaming with fright.

His mother was away, but Mr. Gibson and Aunt Marcia chanced to be home. They made out enough of his incoherent story to comprehend that somebody was hurt and hurried out to the sidewalk.

"I fear this is pretty serious," remarked Mr. Gibson, after vain efforts to revive the victim of the accident.

"If we could get him into the house," suggested Marcia, "we might dispose of him more comfortably than here on the bare hard ground."

They lifted him between them. There was a spare bedroom in the little one story wing. Marcia, ever useful and eager to do good, secured a basin and water. She washed off the blood from the pale lifeless face and placed a wet towel over the abraded forehead.

"It is all I can do," she said.

"It don't seem to bring him to," submitted Mr. Gibson. "Hadn't we better send for a doctor?"

"I think he needs more skilled attention than we can give him," answered Marcia in her gentle practical way.

Mr. Gibson went for the doctor. The latter examined the patient critically. He shook his head dubiously as he plastered up the slight wounds.

"Concussion of the brain, I fear," he announced seriously. "I will leave him some medicine. Change the wet towels often, get him to bed and notify his friends."

Never were there two more diligent nurses and another was added to the coterie when Mrs. Gibson returned home. That end of the proposition turned out satisfactorily, for within two hours the patient opened his eyes. He scanned his environment in a blank meaningless sort of way. Marcia spoke to him, but the man only stared. He did not speak, he did not even seem to hear when he was spoken to.

The doctor came next morning. In the meantime, with a pleased smile the patient had accepted a bowl of gruel from Marcia. As she moved about the room he followed her incessantly with his eyes. The expression of his face was pleased calm, a luxurious weariness, and he only stared when she spoke to him.

The doctor had bad news to impart: some delicate part of the man's mental machinery had been jarred rudely. He might remain in his present situation for weeks—perhaps always. Again he urged Mr. Gibson to try to learn the identity of the man.

To this task Mr. Gibson devoted himself for three days, but with no results. The man was a stranger, probably on a walking tour. Aunt Marcia beckoned to her brother-in-law as he returned one evening from his fruitless quest.

"I have searched his clothes," she said, "and have not found a scrap of paper to indicate who the man is, or where he came from—nothing, except this."

Mr. Gibson uttered a vivid cry of amazement. Marcia had opened a drawer in the bureau in the sick room and had taken out a pocketbook. As she exhibited its contents a great heap of bank notes showed. There were hundred dollar bills, fifties, twenties. Altogether there must have been over two thousand dollars in the broad, long receptacle.

Mr. Gibson's eyes dilated, eagerly, hungrily. How much good that money would do them in their present dire emergency! As he lifted his gaze he flushed guiltily, for he met the clear steadfast eyes of Marcia.

"A sacred trust, brother," she said, locked the drawer and handed him the key.

In the same day the patient remained for a week. Then he was able to be up and about. Always he had attention for Marcia, and only for her. When she played on the piano, or sang, he would listen raptly. When they gave him a seat in the garden, in a species of dull lethargy all day long only when Marcia was near him would he seem content or comprehending.

It got to be a question of urgency as to what disposition should be made of him as two weeks came to an end. The county institution was the only local refuge offered. Its officer had come to suggest that they relieve Marcia of the care of their patient. They sat discussing the case in the garden. Near to them sat the patient. Very decidedly Marcia refused to consent to casting out on the cold charity of the world a person whom fate had sent under their roof. She told of the pocketbook, she suggested that they advertise for the friends of the stranger.

A sharp gasp caused her companion and herself to start violently. A new expression in his eyes, the patient confronted them. He had heard all—and comprehended all.

"Noble woman!" he said brokenly, and took her hand and kissed it reverently.

A rich lonely bachelor recovering from a fit of sickness, in a strange place his accident had happened to him. But it had brought him a faithful nurse, and later a sweet, charming wife, and the troubles of the Gibson family were all ended.

NEAT BONBON BASKETS

NEW IDEA IN TABLE DECORATION IS REAL NOVELTY.

Intended to Hold Salted Almonds or Confections—Expensive to Buy But Not Difficult to Make at Home.

One of the novelties in table decoration this season is the tiny gilt and lace individual basket designed to hold bonbons, salted almonds, or other dainty confections. They are the prettiest things imaginable, and though expensive to buy, should not be difficult to make at home.

One should make a trial basket first. Get a ten-cent knot of gilt wire and fashion into a basket, weaving the wire in and out in a very large mesh, in any preferred shape. There is the dainty little French basket, also the square shape fashioned on the order of the ordinary waste paper basket. Both are popular and also quite easy to follow. The lining is of valenciennes lace. The first step is to cut a tiny round of cardboard to fit the bottom of the basket, square, round or oval, as the case may be, and cover first with silk in a delicate color and then with a scrap of the valenciennes lace. Next cut a strip of lace edging a little wider than the depth of the basket and long enough to go around it and half as much again. Gather the straight edge of the lace and sew to the piece of covered cardboard. Put in a gathering of the lace, thus creating a little ruff to stand up all around the basket, trim the handles with baby ribbon tied into bows to match the color of the bottom, and the basket is complete.

For a Christmas table the baskets could be trimmed with red or holly ribbons. For ordinary use one could get a very pretty effect by using a different color for each basket in harlequin fashion. In this way any scraps of silk or ribbon that might be on hand could be used up.

Vat lace at ten cents a yard or less will answer for lining. It should be from three to three and one-half inches wide and the scallop not too deep for obvious reasons.

As one becomes more skilled in basket making larger pieces could be attempted, as a catch-all basket for the bedroom or as a centerpiece for a luncheon to hold the favors.

WORD ABOUT AUTUMN HATS

Turbans of Various Design and Sailors of Medium Brim Are Favorites.

A round, bowl-shaped turban of black velvet, with thick ruff of black malines from front to back over the crown, is broken by a bunch of pink velvet roses near the front. A round turban with one high point on the left has a crown of Ottoman and a brim of velvet. A small round plush turban fitting low on the face is trimmed with a rosette near the left front. Small turbans of silk or velvet finish with a twist like a large wing worn upright and in front. Taffeta sailors have a round crown and medium brim with a slight roll all around. The large sailor is covered with heavy Georgette crepe and a scarf of the times, and sometimes the crown is covered with silk fringe.

LACING FROM BOOTS TO HATS

New Bolero Jacket Is Laced to Fit the Figure Snugly—Gloves Also Are Laced.

As eagerly as the buttoned boot was discarded to replace the laced one is the idea of lacing any two pieces of material that seem in any way to belong to each other being introduced and adopted. A costume that has attracted much attention is one of navy blue gaberdine, the bolero jacket of which was laced to fit the figure snugly. The rather large sleeves were laced to fit the lower arm; the collar, too, was laced to the chin.

With the new inside lacing of the boot comes the hat, whose several portions are joined with lacing. Gloves, too, are laced on either the inside or the outside of the arm; in fact, to be quite up-to-the-minute one must have two parts of the costume laced together.

Soutache and Embroidery. Embroidery of one sort or another continues in high favor. Embroidered net frocks for summer afternoons and evenings are a wise choice for the woman who wishes to have a serviceable and yet a sufficiently elaborate frock. Soutache braiding is much used, too, applied in all the intricacies of embroidered scroll designs.

These infant welfare stations are intended for the use of all mothers in the neighborhood who need help in the care of their babies, and no one needing it, should fail to avail herself of this opportunity.

EARL OF GRANARD HONORED BY KING

The earl of Granard recently resigned his post of master of the horse to the king of England and went to the front with his regiment, the Royal Irish. At the same time King George invested him with the grand cross of the Royal Victorian Order. The photograph shows the earl and his beautiful wife, who was Beatrice Mills of New York and Newport.

CROSSED WIRES

By ELLIS TOWER

"It was a long, long letter, and it began:

Dear Jack:

Your note came today. It made me feel anew how much I miss you. Dearest one in all the world, when you know that I love you why should I not speak of my love? Why should I let conventional hold me back when I am starving with my heart hunger? I can say it without even asking that you love me as I love you, or praying that the future may in some miraculous way bring us together. I only pray that my love for you may carry with it some blessing. Good-by. JILL.

Miss Curzon finished this letter and read it carefully through. Then she laid both arms on the table, dropped her head between them and sobbed heavily. The telephone rang and the sudden noise startled her. She answered in a weak, trembling voice. The operator apologized. It was an error: the wires were crossed, and somebody else was wanted.

"Ah, yes," she moaned, "it is someone else who is wanted all the time. Love does not call me; success does not call me."

Just then she remembered that success had that day signaled her in the form of a letter from her literary agent asking whether she could supply a serial for publication to be started soon. But how could she write of love, when her own hopeless love was crushing her heart? She sat down and wrote a curt note to the agent stating that it would be impossible to send the story for several weeks.

The telephone rang again. Another apology—the wires were crossed again. She hung up the receiver with a jerk and burst into nervous sobbing. Hearing her sister's voice in the hall, she hurried the two letters into envelopes and concealed them. After good-nights had been said and she was alone again she dropped the letters down the chute and went to her room to sit by the open window until far into the night.

During the night storm came and the next day was so cold and rainy that all the hotel guests were kept indoors. Miss Curzon was the most restless person there. Her sister's health was not improving. In fact, this damp morning showed her colorless and frail.

"Oh, I've been blind to everything but my own hopeless love!" Miss Curzon left her breakfast untouched, as remorseless thoughts rushed into her mind. "I've been selfish and idle when it was so necessary for me to be busy. I should never have sent either of those letters last night. Jack will despise me for a foolish, forward woman, and Barnaby will use some other writer's serial. Will I never be messenger boy at the hotel turned in this message late that night: B. Barnaby.

Care Authors' Club, New York: Serial started on different plan. Have sent for typewriter. Will send manuscript in one week. JILLAH CURZON.

What Does Vocational Mean?

The Vocational School fits people for the callings or vocations of life—it makes good farmers, good carpenters, good printers, good blacksmiths, good household managers, and good nurses.

The young people who take these vocational courses increase most rapidly their power to earn money.

We do not wish to make young people greedy, but we do wish to enable them to secure means for the honorable support of families and providing the good things which God intends all industrious and worthy people to enjoy.

And there is a pleasure in doing work well. Show me a boy who can really shoe a horse, and I will show you one who stands up erect and has the respect of his neighbors.

And more than that the boy who is learning the business of a farmer or a carpenter finds all his studies more interesting. He wants to know how to figure and keep accounts; he wants to know the secrets of plants and animals; he wants to be able to draw a house plan and to write a letter, and "do things" in a business-like way. And so it happens that many of the vocational students become the best all-around students.

And one thing more. In the Vocational Department, a single term gives the chance for greater progress than a single term in any other department. No one can be one term in the Vocational Schools without feeling that he has gotten immediate return for all his money and effort.

Questions Answered

Berea, FRIEND OF WORKING STUDENTS. Berea College with its affiliated schools, is not a money-making institution. It requires certain fees, but it expends many thousands of dollars each year for the benefit of its students, giving highest advantages at lowest cost, and arranging as far as possible for students to earn and save in every way.

OUR SCHOOL IS LIKE A FAMILY, with careful regulations to protect the character and reputation of the young people. Our students come from the best families and are earnest to do well and improve. For any who may be sick the College provides doctor and nurse without extra charge.

All except those with parents in Berea live in College buildings, and many assist in work of boarding hall, farm and shops, receiving valuable training and getting pay according to the value of their labor. Except in winter it is expected that all will have a chance to earn a part of their expenses. Write to the Secretary before coming to secure employment.

PERSONAL EXPENSES for clothing, laundry, postage, books, etc., vary with different people. Berea favors plain clothing. Our climate is the best, but as students must attend classes regardless of the weather, warm wraps and underclothing, umbrellas and overshoes are necessary. THE CO-OPERATIVE STORE furnishes books, toilet articles, work uniforms, umbrellas and other necessary articles at cost.

LIVING EXPENSES are really below cost. The College asks no rent for the fine buildings in which students live, charging only enough room rent to pay for cleaning, repairs, fuel, lights, and washing of bedding and towels. For table board, without coffee or extras, $1.35 a week, in the fall, and $1.50 in winter; for furnished room, with fuel, lights, washing of bedding, 40 to 60 cents for each person.

SCHOOL FEES are two. First a "DOLLAR DEPOSIT," as guarantee for return of room key, library books, etc. This is paid but once, and is returned when the student departs.

Second an "INCIDENTAL FEE" to help on expenses for care of school buildings, hospital, library, etc. (Students pay nothing for tuition or services of teachers—all our instruction is a free gift). The Incidental Fee for Foundation and Vocational students is $5.00 a term; in Academy and Normal $6.00 and $7.00 in Collegiate course.

PAYMENT MUST BE IN ADVANCE, incidental fee and room rent by the term, board by the half term. Installments are as follows:

FALL TERM		ACADEMY	COLLEGE
VOCATIONAL AND FOUNDATION SCHOOLS	AND NORMAL
Incidental Fee	$ 5.00	$ 6.00	$ 7.00
Room	5.60	7.00	7.00
Board, 7 weeks	9.45	9.45	9.45
Amount due Sept. 15, 1915 ...	$20.05	$22.45	$23.45
Board 7 wks., due Nov. 3, 1915. 9.45		9.45	9.45
Total for term	$29.50	$31.90	$32.90

Applicants must bring or send a testimonial showing that they are above 15 years old, in good health, and of good character. This may be signed by some former Berea student or some reliable teacher or neighbor. The use of tobacco is strictly forbidden.

Fall Term opens September 15th. Hurry!

For information or friendly advice write to the Secretary.

MARSHALL E. VAUGHN, Berea, Ky.

WHAT IS A NORMAL SCHOOL?

Not every man can teach what he knows.

Not every school master can make the children interested and shape their growth.

The training of teachers is rather new in this country. It used to be supposed that anybody who was lame and could not work might be set to teach the children!

The Berea Normal School has as its one aim the benefit of the children of the mountain region. It aims to give them teachers who will know their business and can cause the children to love their studies and make rapid progress toward manhood and womanhood.

It is one of the very few normal schools in the world in which the majority of the students are young men, and in which the chief attention is given in fitting teachers for work in the country districts.

The equipments of the Berea Normal School are great. Chief among them stands the wonderful Carnegie Library, and the Knapp Hall for practice teaching.

The School has longer and shorter courses of study. Those who complete the longest course receive a certificate from the State without examination. Those who go for only a single term get ideas which they can work out by themselves.

The School has great advantages also by being connected with the College Department. The Preparatory Department, the Vocational Schools, and the Foundation School.

Every young person who comes to the Berea Normal School will get the best instruction and a quick start for the noble profession of teaching.

A CHANCE FOR MUSIC LOVERS

Every girl desires to sit at the organ and call out its beautiful tones, while friends lean over her shoulder and sing.

A very special arrangement is made for this Fall Term, putting the price for instruction in the organ so low that everybody can have a chance to learn.

The new teacher, Miss Carman, fresh from the Metropolitan School of Music in New York City, will give this instruction herself, and the beautiful practice rooms in Music Hall are well equipped with instruments.

Every girl and half of our young men ought to take the cabinet organ this Fall. Ask Professor Rigby!

The Balance of Nature.
If everything born lived, the tenth generation of a single aphid would equal in actual weight some 1,000,000, 000 men, each weighing some twenty stone, and all in ten days. The common house fly could produce 20,000, 000 in a single season. Of 700 spider eggs laid by a common garden spider only two finally survive. In fifteen years each pair of birds would have increased to more than 2,000,000,000. Twice the average number of birds existing perish yearly. Even a pair of elephants in five centuries would become the progenitors of 15,000,000 elephants. Nature keeps down the numbers by starvation and other methods.—
